Your Halloween hunt starts here!

If you don't have the Hide & Pic app yet, scan the code on the right to get it on Google Play.
In the app, open "Find by QR Code" from the main menu and scan one of the large QR codes on the clue cards above.

Note: Explore, find clues, and hunt for treasure, in the real world, with the app as your guide.

This back side is optional since the Hide & Pic app shows these questions and reads them aloud.
Print it only if you'd like nicer-looking cards (double-sided, flip on long edge).

In Japan, some Halloween costumes are tiny everyday moments, like a leaky pen stain on a shirt! It's called "jimi Halloween". What does jimi mean? Hint: the opposite of fancy!

NH51

No hands allowed! In this old Halloween game, long played in Britain, you dunk your face in a tub of water and bite which floating fruit?

RU09

Before pumpkins took over, kids in Britain made Halloween lanterns from this hard, purple-topped root vegetable – hollowed out, with a scary face cut in!

SE13

In old Wales, a grown-up dressed as a black, tailless farm animal played Halloween tag, chasing kids home from the bonfire. Which animal?

LC31

In Scotland, couples once tossed two of these nuts into a Halloween fire: quiet burning meant a happy match, hissing meant trouble!

CJ84

Old Irish stories warn: don't pick these wild fruits from prickly bushes after Halloween! A shape-shifting spirit, the púca, has spoiled them – some say by spitting.

XO20

Candy corn, the striped US Halloween classic, was sold over 100 years ago under the brand name "___ Feed" – named after which clucking farm bird?

VR56

At some school and church Halloween events in the US and Canada, kids trick-or-treat around a parking lot. Which part of each car holds the candy?
